Aviator Martin's failure to make a good flight Wednesday afternoon was a great disappointment both to the crowd and to the management but he was unable to get away during the afternoon on account of the gusty winds and cross air currents and broke a stay about 5 o'clock while attempting a flight, by running into one of the spectators. Repairs caused a delay of over an hour but about 6:30 he made a fine flight of some 10 minutes' duration going up the Barton river valley nearly to Glover and back over the fair ground and Barton village down the valley a mile, cutting a large figure eight and flying some six or eight miles.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. Martin made a fine flight about 3:30 o'clock taking nearly the same course he did on Wednesday evening. One of the pictures published herewith shows him just as he was leaving the grounds on his course toward Glover. After this successful flight on Thursday afternoon Mr. Martin attempted another flight, but owing to lack of

The loss on the buildings is said to be fully $5000 besides what personal effects were lost. The buildings were one of the best sets of farm buildings in Glover. A cut of the buildings appears in another part of this paper.
